Commissioner for Patents

In response to appellant's remarks that Turgeon was improperly applied in the examiner's answer filed (3/24/2005), the examiner notes that the use of TURGEON was merely used as a reference to clarify the capability that is inherent in the smart cart of O'Leary ((MPEP 1208.01) The rejection as originally stated in the prior office action has not changed. The examiner notes that the use of TURGEON does not need to be applied to the current combination of O'Leary for the rejection to be a prima facie rejection. By this action the examiner is removing what may appear to be a rejection in view of TURGEON in the examiner's answer. The action is submitted as provided for in RULE 41.43(a)(1).
